Lower N. Vietnam Pounded By B-52s for the Fifth Day

By George McArthur

SAIGON, June 12 .- B-52 bombers poured saturation raids on lower panhandle of North Vietnam for the fifth consecutive day, today and officials confirmthat the big Bireloforizesses will now be used regularly north of the 17th parallel.

In effect the new policy covering B-53 strikes extends their regular target area some 40 miles ioto North Vietnam, and even that will be enlarged from time to time.

The widened use of B-52s was made possible, officers said, by the sharp decrease in the North Vietnamese use of Russian-built surface-to-air missiles. Although officers would not discuss specific "rules of engagement" for the blg bombers, it was evident they will now be used wherever sufficiently worthwhile targets are available and the "missile environment" permits. Although the big bombers fly within their own "ciectronie bubble" of counter-missile defenses, the Air Force remains apprehensive about using them where the missile emplacements are known to be thick. Since the bombing campaign resumed parallei to the navai blockade ordered May 9, however, the SAM missile defenses strong out above the 17th parallel have been largely pulled back to the Hanoi-Haiphong area. Even there the missiles are now used sparingly by comparison with the past.

40,000-Pound Loads For the past five days, 20 to 30 of the big bombers have been unloading 40,000 - pound bomb loads on supply depois that the North Vietnamese have strung out along the major coastal highway leading south. These raids, bead-quarters officers said, should have a quick effect on the northern battlefront, where some captured war prisoners have already re-ported being on short rations.

While the big bombers took over more of the undramatic saturation bombing, daily strikes by more than 300 planes hit targets deep in North Vietnam. The latest big strike reported yesterfor North Victnam: It is 63 miles southeast of Hanol.

U.S. planes also were picking off targets stripped bare by previous bombings, the U.S. command reported today.

An orange fireball, five football fields in diameter, marked the spot where waves of Phantom jets demolished 60 rail cars stranded northeast of Hanoi and 25 miles below the Chinese border. Pilots claimed touching off 27 secondary explosions and 25 fires in the raids yesterday.

While intensified air strikes on North Vietnam overshadowed ground action, significant fighting flared in several spots, notably around the besieged provincial capital of An Loc, where North Vietnamese regulars again stalled relief efforts.

Over the weekend the South Vietnamese had succeeded in getting the biggest helicopter airlift into the town since the siege began April 12. Two fresh paratroop battalions were lifted in and about 200 seriously wounded South Vietnamese soldier a brought out. The South Vietnamese corps commander, Lt-Gen. Nguyen Van Minh, said Saturday he hoped to break the siege within 48 hours.

Artillery Fire Increases

Today, however, headquarters reported that Communist artiliery and rocket fire had once again increased. While the two fresh airborne battalions were troops from the northern edge of the town, no progress was made in clearing the road to the south that is the key to the encirclement. It appeared the North Vietnamese had given up hopes of taking An Loc but were equally determined to stall relief efforts. The American Air Force was credited vesterday with capturing a Russian-built heavy T-54 tank. The tank was spotted in the open just outside the town and when an Air Force jet dived for a pass the driver careened the tank into an old bomb crater Unable to maneuver the tank out of the crater, the crew quickly abandoned it and it was

New Hope Seen For Resumption Of Peace Talks

By Jonathan C. Randal
PARIS, June 12 (WP).—Conciliatory North Vietnamese and American statements within less than 24 hours of each other appeared today to signal rapid resumption of the Victnam peace talks, boycotted by the United States for the last five weeks.

In a dispatch from Hanoi yesterday the Agence France-Presse quoted Xuan Thuy, the chief North Vietnamese negotiator at the formal Paris talks, as saying he would be returning here soon with new instructions." And this morning his American counterpart, William J. Porter, returned after a four-week absence and expatiated to newsmen in uncharacteristically mild fashion. The usually tough-talking diplomat went so far as to allow that "we understand, I think, some of the problems which beset the other side." In referring directly to Mr.

Thuy's remarks, Mr. Porter said the reports suggested that "perhaps the other side . . . is inclined to make another attempt and I repeat that we are."

Although American sources stressed that the timing of Mr. Porter's return had nothing to do with Mr. Thuy's remarks, the statements of the rival negotiators taken together seemed to indicate mutual readiness to accentuate the positive,

No Denunciation

Gone from Mr. Porter's remarks was denunciation of the North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam. In the past that drive had been invoked as evidence that the Communists were not interested in 'serious negotiations' and as justification for the continued allied boycott of the Paris Indeed, he maintained that "we are not making any conditions" for resuming the formal weekly conference. The Communists repeatedly have insisted that resumption was the price for new secret talks, alone deemed able to bring about a negotiated setllement.

The American ambassador said President Nixon "is intensely in-terested in arriving at some kind of negotiated settlement of the Victnam problem. My return here day destroyed the Lang Chi at this time is an additional hydroelectric station, which can indication of his strong preference provide 75 percent of the power and hope that such a settlement can be achieved." Stressing that the United States still believes that President Nixon's May 8 offer for a cease-fire, prisoner exchange and total American withdrawal within four months offers a "good basis for discussions," Mr. Porter nonetheless was far from categorical about the plan. "If we can get such a discussion going, I wouldn't care to say that it would be limited by this or that," he said, "Wa would try to be flexible as we have tried to be, or intended to be, in the past."

New Departure

At the very least, Mr. Porter's remarks seemed to signal a new departure in American thinking. er substantive negotiations were about to begin or whether Washington simply was willing to return to the hitherto empty weekly public sessions now that tha President has returned from tha Moscow summit conference. ## Chinese Call Raids Threat, Provocation

Emperor Hirohito spent a few hours in the United States in Anchorage, Alaska, on his trip to Western Europe last year.

Ending a weekend visit to Japan, Mr. Kissinger told a news conference that the presidential invitation to the emperor was delivered to Premier Eisaku Sato. Mr. Nixon's adviser on national security said that a reply to the invitation will come "at an appropriate time through normal diplomatic channels."

Japanese government officials said earlier that Japan could not extend an invitation to Mr. Nixon until the emperor visited Washington as a state guest,

Replying to China's demande for condemnation of the United States for "barbarous atrocitles" in Vietnam. U.S. chief delegate Russell E. Train said:

"Most of us here, my delegation included, are eager to work together in a spirit of reason and cooperation for international development and environmental protection, whatever our differences on there subjects may be.

This objective will not be served by bringing into our deliberations highly charged issues, extranscous to our agenda and im-possible of solution in this forum." Immediately after Mr. Train'e speech, the Chinese delegate arose, walked to the rostrum and said, "We cannot agree to this statement by the United States. He added: "We ask to reply further to this statement" and then obsuptly stepped down. The earliest opportunity for a Chinese reply will be at the end of to-

Earlier, a resolution almed at France calling for abandonment of all planned nuclear tests was approved in committee today by an overwhelming majority.

France, which plans nuclear tests in the South Pacific this month, annoonced it would not follow the resolution.

The vote was 48 for, two against with 14 abstentions. China, stating that its nuclear armament program was purely

Key Document

Meanwhile, conference sources expressed growing pessimism over the prospect of getting a consensus among the participating nations on the key document of the 11-day parley-the "Declaration on the Human Environment.'

One leading delegation chief, who would not be named told newsmen that be saw no possibility of a compromise between China, speaking for the developing nations, and the industrialized countries.

China has said the Indochina conflict cannot be ignored in the document and forced the con-ference to establish a special working group to reexamine the carefully worded document.

The United States declared it would not discuss Vietnam at the conference. The working group resumed discussions behind closed doors today after fruitiess informal consultations yesterday, the sources said.

The committee was dealing with 16 various amendments to the declaration, bot the sources said China has not yet presented its own amendments. China wants the document to contain more of the viewe of the developing nations. Chinese officials said they would, among other things, de-mand that the declaration cootain language forcing the developed countries to pay overall compen-

U.K. Rail Dispute

Near Settlement

LONDON, June 12 (AP) .-Britain's nine-month-old railroad dispute was on the point of settlement tonight after an increased pay offer by the state management, and leaders of the three rall unions indicated they would call off plans for a nationwide go-slow due to start at midnight tomorrow.

Both the unions and the Rail Board had accepted a 125 percent pay hike proposed by an independent arbitrator but could not agree on a starting date. The unions wanted May 1, but the management insisted on June 5. After daylong meetings the two sides struck a compromise. The increase will be paid from June 5, but the management will hand out over £2 million in lump-sum payments to railroad workers as compensation for not getting the raise from May 1.

Flood Rains Caused by Weather Oddity KANSAS CITY, Mo., June

12 (AP). - The terrential downpour that deluged Rapid City, 5.D., late Friday and early Saturday was the result of weather conditions that are unlikely to occur more than once in 100 years, the National Weather Service's office here said.

Elroy Balke, the service's regional hydrologist, said 5.75 inches fell quickly at Pactola Dam west of Rapid City and 7 inches within six hours at the small town of Nemo to the northwest.

"The probability of that much rainfall and those particular weather conditions can be expected once in 100 vears." Mr. Balke said.

Three weather conditions. rarely occurring together, were blamed: A mass of moist air was over the Black Hills; .a. strong breeze pushed the air against the hills, causing it to rise and release its moisture; winds at higher levels were unusually light and did not disperse the moist air. A contributing factor to the deaths and damage was the hilly terrain, Mr. Balke said. "The great runoff caused the damage," a corleague affirmed.

Mr. Finch said he would arge that the nation contribute through the Red Cross to provide "the short-term funds needed for housekeeping, food and sheiter."

He said the progress made in cleaning the area had been remarkable and he said that all federal agencies that could be ac-Urated were already working in Rapid City. "What we need now is to mobilize nongovernmental resources." he declared.

Water System Off The water-supply system remained shut oil for the third day, prohibiting bathing and making plumbing facilities inopercoie. Drinking water was trucked from the Air Force base and nearby communities.

Typhoid and tetanus inocula-tions were given to hundreds of persons who had been injured by or immersed in floodwaters. Natural gas remained off but telephone and electric services were normal.

Mayor Barnett spent most of today in closed meetings with city, county and Civil Defense officials. He also met with area clergymen to discuss burial services bot it was not announced wbether a mass memorial or individual services would be condneted.

The hodies were taken to temporary morgues in three funeral homes. FBI agents checked bodies early today and identified 167 victims. The mayor put the city under a curfew lasting from 10 p.m. to dawn. He said the night search for bodies was largely ineffective. Observers noted that the 3,000 civilian volunteers working at night might unwittingly cover up traces of corpses that might otherwise be found in daylight.

Perhaps another factor in the curfew decision was the report of looting incidents Saturday afternoon, and the memory of several ehots being fired by National Guardamen during Saturday night. The National Guardsmen were exempted from the curiew, and searched for bodies throughout the night.

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP). -The State Department said today that no signal had been received from the Communist side regarding the resumption of the Paris talks. However, a spokesman, Charles

W. Bray, said that the basis for Mr. Porter's "relative optimism" was the report of the forthcoming return of Mr. Thuy with new instructions. He cautioned reporters against considering Mr. Porter's remarks as a signal to the other side. House Hearings Open

Gen. Layelle and the officer who fired him, Gen. John D. Ryan, the Air Force chief of staff, testified for two hours this morning before a House Armed Services Investigating Subcommittee headed by Rep. P. Edward Hebert, D., La.

Gen. Lavelle testified that he had ordered the raids, simed at targets in the southernmost areas of North Vietnam, between Nov. 8, 1971 and March 8 of this year. He took over as commander of the Seventh Air Force in July, 1971.

The fargets, he said, included sirrields, radar sites, missile sites, missiles on transporters equipment with the missiles, and heavy gons," The strikes were "very successful," he added.

He said he authorized the attacks after falling to get authority to begin attacking what he said was a substantial build-up of North Vietnamese equipment such as tanks, sirerait and oil depots in an area 11 to 15 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone. The North Vietnamese offensive began in late March with an allout assault across the eastern half of the DMZ.

In April, President Nixon enthorized bombing in North Vietnam.

In his testimony, Gen. Ryan said he removed Gen. Lavelle from his command after an investigation—prompted by a letter from an enlisted Air Force sergeant-had revealed that "some missions had not been flown in accordance with the rules of engagement and there were irregularities in the operational reports." Gen. Ryan said the official Air Force investigation concluded that there were 28 violations of the rules of engagement involving unauthorized strikes by 147 air-craft. In Air Force pariance, a mission can involve one or many individual attacks by aircraft,

The Air Force chief of staff also revealed under questioning that three falsified after-action reports were uncovered by the investigating team. The inquiry was completed on March 23, Gen. "Rism."

McGovern Picks Up 33 Delegates in 2 States But Fails in 3

By Tim O'Brien

WASHINGTON, June 12 (WP). -Sen. George S. McGovern, D., S.D., added 33 more delegates to his national convention strength during the weekend, showing gains in Virginia and Minnesota. But he lost hids for committed delegates in three other state delegate selection conventions.

As the dust settled at state conventions in Minnesota, Virginis, Okiahoma, Missonri and Kansas, Sen, McGovern emerged with an estimated national tally of 954 1/4 committed delegates. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey won seven at-large delegates in Minnesota and four in Virginia, bringing his national strength up to 315 1/2. Alabama's Gov. George C. Sen. McGovern's best showing came in Virginia, a traditionally moderate to conservative state, where he won 28 new delegates. Only four went to Sen. Humphrey, while Sen, Edmund S. In previous Minnesota district conventions, Sen. Humphrey had won 28 delegates to Sen. Mc-Govern's 14.

Balancing Sen. McGovern's unexpectedly strong showing in Virginia were mild setbacks in Kensaz, Missouri and Oklahoma. All the at-large delegates chosen Saturday in the three Midwestern states fell into the uncommitted column, despite Sen. Mc-Govern's attempts to capture a few token delegates.

In Missouri, 18 at-large delegates were chosen, and Sen. Mc-Govern's supporters had asked for seven of them. Missouri party leaders turned down the request, and all 18 delegates selected were formally uncom-

Scott, assistant director of communications for the executive branch, said, however, that the participants were "beneficiaries of goverument contracts and should show the administration they care about where their money came

The meeting attracted a wide cross section of blacks who are considered successful in their fields, from Jim Brown, the former professional football player, and Betty Shabazz, widow of Muslim leader Malcolm X, to local poverty and housing pro-gram officials.

Unaware of Ties

Some of the participants said they were not aware that the event would be partisan and that it had not been advertised as such. Invitations to attend the meeting termed it a "getting ourselves together" event, It was not mentioned as a rally for the President.

The get-together included workshops, closed to the press, on compaign strategy to get more blacks to vote Republican. Mr. Nixon received 12 percent of the black vote in 1968, and black Republicans said they hope to at least double that figure this year.

The comparison of Mr. Nixon to Jesus Christ was made by the Rev. William H. Borders, an Atlanta Republican, who delivered the closing address at the black vote unit's dinner. Mr. Borders said that he would nominate Mr. Nixon as the "statesman of all times" and as a man "whose importance to civilization is almost as Jesus Christ him-

Half of Britons See EEC Making Them Worse Off

LONDON, June 12 (Reuters) .-An opinion poll published in a British newspaper today disclosed that 50 percent of Britons feel they will be worse off for the next 10 years than they are now if Britain joins the European Common Market as scheduled next Jan. 1.

The Harris Poll, reported in The Guardian, was conducted be-tween May 31 and June 4, a time when meat prices in Britain were beginning to increase.

Fifty percent of those polled thought that personally they would be worse off than they are now over the next decade if Britain enters: 27 percent felt they would be better off and 23 percent did not know.

Asked how they would feel if Parliament decided Britain should not join the EEC, 46 per-cent said they would approve, while 35 percent said they would

Another 59 percent said they feit the decision to take Britain into the market does not reflect the wishes of the majority of

The poll was seen as a boost for opposition leader Harold Wil-son, who reiterated over the weekend that a Labor party government would renegotiate the terms of entry and hold a referendum on them

The second dealt with Vico, Saint-Simon, Taine, Marx Engels, Lenin and Trotsky in terms of the revolutionary tradition in Europe; the third concerned the dualism of Cickens, Kipling, Casanova, Edith Wharton, Hemingway and Joyce, and the fourth treated Harriet Beecher Stowe, Lincoln, Grant, Sherman and a number of others who left a record of their experiences leading up to or involving the Civil War.

In other works, the critic paid his respects to many of his contemporaries—Fitzgerald, Stein-beck, Faulkner, Aldons Huxley, Louis Bromfield, Katherine Anne Porter, Thornton Wilder, Malraux and Sartre, among others.

His books of criticism brought Mr. Wilson his renown; a collection of six stories satirizing suburban marners and morals. "Memoirs of Hecate County." carned him notoriety. Published in 1946, the book was banned in New York state as obscene chiefly for one story, "The Princess with the Golden Hair," The story, told in the first person, contrasted the sex life of a suborban matron with that of a city working girl. Its love scenes, tame by today's standards, nonetheless shocked the Court of Special Sessions. Its ban remains in force, but without effect on the availability of the book to. those who search it out.

As a Journalist He often called himself a journalist and, in fact, many of his essays appeared in their first form in such magazines as the New Republic, the New Yorker and New York Review of Books. These he expanded and burnished for his books and this required enormous concentration. He disliked dealing with strangers because of his stutter and his absentmindedness.

A command of culture came naturally to Mr. Wilson, for it was a world into which he was born and in which he was reared. The only child of Edmund and Helen Mather Kimball Wilson, he was born on May 8. 1895, in Red Bank, N.J. His father, a essful lawyer, served a term as attorney general of New Jersey. His mother, also of professional background, pot store by books and art as household equipment. And, when the boy was 13, his parents took him to Europe for a thorough tour of the cultural sights of Italy, Austria, Germany, France and Britain. A year later, ha was sent to the Hill School in Pottstown, Pa., where his first months were agonizing and rebellious. "My mother, with characteristic lack of tact, had called me Bunny when she brought me on and, at

Quintuplets Doing Well in W. Germany

FRANKFURT, June 12 (UPI). Six-week premature quintuplets born to the German wife of an American radio technician yesterday are "progressing well" in incubators, a hospital spokesman said here today.

The bables, four girls and a boy, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Bean, of West Hartford. Conn. They have been married four years, and Mrs. Bean, 31, had received "hormone" injections for apparent sterility. The iniants were delivered by caesarian section within a two-minute period by nine doctors. The heaviest, the boy, weighed three pounds twelve ounces; the smallest, two pounds four ounces.

Soviet Police Seize Zionist After His U.S. Bride Leaves

By Theodore Shabad

Young Soviet Jew who had sought to avoid military service was detained here today shortly after saving good-bye to a young American woman he married Thursday in a private Orthodox Jewish ceremony.

The huband, Gavriel Y. Shapiro, a Zionist activist, was seized at Moscow airport after his bride, the former Judy Silver, flew out for London en route to New York and her home in Cincinnati.

Although Mr. Shapiro, a 27year-old chemical engineer, was wanted for evading active duty as a reserve officer, he had emerged from hiding to attend the religious wedding at his parents' home near Moscow University.

A religious eeremony has no legal standing in the Soviet Union, and the couple followed through by applying for a civil marriage license without official interference. The wife left today because her tourist visa expired but she planned to return for the civil wedding, set for Aug. 30. The authorities, having evideotly kept the young couple under surveillance, did not act until after her departure. A witness outside the airport terminal said Mr. Shapiro, wearing a neatly trimmed beard, had been detained by a uniformed policeman and two plainclothesmen and driven off in a police car.

Stockholm, Pollution and All That

Human Environment, which is going on in Stockholm, would have been justified if it did no more than dramatize the fragility of the planet and arouse its occupants to the imperatives of international rescue. Unfortunately, perhaps inevitably, it has not performed that essential task. Instead, in the raising of the issue, a major split on it has developed, making it debatable whether Stockholm will be remembered as a pioneering forum of international cooperation or as just another arena of international conflict. We refer, of course, not to the political dispute over East Germany which led the Soviet Union and some East Europeans to stay home, but to the split between the world's developed and developing states.

China's onslaught against the United States exploited the unhappy fact that many poor countries regard the global environmental cause as a rich countries' trick designed to seal them into eternal backwardness. The poor are leery, for instance, that recycling of raw materials will reduce their exports; that they will lose further from restrictions on food or materials from a "sweated environment"; that the cost of pollution controls will raise the price of industrial goods they must buy, and so on. This is the basis of their demands—demands rejected by the American delegation, which was bound by tight instructions reflecting political realitles back in Washington-for extra aid to pay for the extra costs of environmental care * * *

The result is that it has become almost impossible for the conference sponsors to stick to the safe high ground of their earlier intentions: stating vague principles, arranging to monitor global conditions, and setting up an organization at the United Nations to carry on the work.

Whatever the outcome this week, the sound and fury should not be confused with the maximum effort by the world's leading polluters—that is, the world's rich—which the urgency of the problem demands. That

The United Nations Conference on the the Russians aren't at Stockholm is not too serious; at the summit the United States and the Soviet Union agreed to cooperate on pollution control, although it is not clear whether they have more in mind now than simply swapping technology. What is essential is that, in international approaches to pollution, the United States not confine Its efforts to formats so general and political -such as Stockholm-as to assure that pratically no real progress will be made.

> Specifically, the American obligation is to join with other rich countries—not only fellow Western members of the OECD but the rich socialist countries as well-and to stop particular kinds of poliotion. Environmental poisoning in agriculture is tough to tackle: To cut off DDT, of which the United States is the chief producer, for example, would cause a sharp rise in malaria and a decline in farm productivity in many developing countries. Similarly, the polsoning resulting from human waste seems to be of the sort that will and can be tackled only when local communities act. * * *

> Industrial pollution is something else. The rich do it, and the rich can do something about It. One interesting approach, first outlined in Foreign Affairs by Charles C. Humpstone and subsequently elaborated and endersed in a resolution by 33 senators, would be to have rich countries set emission standards by industry and to enact tax and tarif: schedules as financial incentives to reduce emissions to zero over a certain term of years. Such a scheme would remove business competition as a reason for not spending what is necessary to halt the foulest industrial emissions.

> All nations have an equal interest in the planet's welfare and sorvival but some nations are more equal-that is, more responsible for pollution and more capable of cleanop-than others. The tension between rich and poor so evident at Stockholm cannot be allowed to keep the rich from doing what they must do by themselves.

The Pilots' Warning

The threat of the international organization representing airline pilots to shut down global service for 24 hours on June 19 unless the United Nations acts to stop hijacking reflects their exasperation at an unconscionable situation.

A fresh swell of extortion and violence in the air and at airports has exposed the inadequacy of the response made by airlines, governments and the international community to a wave of aerial banditry that has been building for several years. Confronted with an ever-present danger to their passengers and planes, the men who command airliners, like the captains of ships, understandably feel they have not only the duty but the right to demand more effective security standards.

There are at least three ways in which the UN Security Council could move to help deter hijacking and associated crimes:

• Call on all nations speedily to ratify existing conventions dealing with these problems. Of 124 member states in the International Civil Aviation Organization, only eight have signed and only 27 so far have ratified the Hague convention of 1970 calling for "severe" penalties and for the extradition of hijackers. Only 39 have signed and only two tiny ones have ratified last year's Montreal convention broadening that pact.

Initiate urgent steps for sanctions against any nation that fails to comply with those conventions, as recommended by the United States and Canada last year. Secretary of State Rogers's determination to press this issue is encouraging.

· Convene an emergency meeting of ICAO to complete a new convention, already in preparation, spelling out measures to be taken at all airports to intercept potential hijackers, arms and explosives.

The pilots and their passengers are entitled to immediate action in all these neglected areas, especially the imposition of tough international sanctions against those nations failing to comply with minimum security requirements. If the airways cannot be made more reasonably safe, the pilots have no alternative but to refuse to fly.

In the meantime, West Germany and Algeria could set an example for the world if they would voluntarily extradite-or at least severely punish-hijackers now in their custody as a result of recent incidents. Algeria's newly expressed willingness to end its haven for hijackers is a welcome-if belated-step in the right direction.

Common Market Wrangles

A stage for the latest round was provided by the Western European Union assembly to the meetings of which France has returned now that wrangles about Britain's entry

On market matters Mr. Pompldou's threat to cancel the summit of the Ten, to which he was to have heen host in October, was duly followed by a warning by the French delegate, Mr. Lipkowski, that the Community was not "irreversible."

But the other Six refused to be frightened. As a result, a useful and forthright exchange of views developed, from which it emerged that, although there were different opinions about the rate of advance towards unity, even the most pragmatic wanted a bigger element of idealism than France was prepared to accept, and above all that there must be no ganging up against America.

Wisely the risks of forcing things & outrance were avoided. The point had been reached where matters had to be left to the ministerial council. Accordingly no vote was taken on whether the proposed political secretariat should be an effective instrument linked to the market commission in Brussels, or a modest affair in Paris, which France alone wants and to which she has become deeply committed.

The Russians Aren't Coming

The Russians aren't coming-and thinking people will be glad they're not. As an open port we have to allow Russian liners our facilities. And as one of the world's big ship-repair centers, we cannot turn back business when Russian ships come here for costly refits But we mustn't let the Russians turn Hong Kong into a spy center on China. Our position is too delicate to run any risks like that.

There's no doubt that the ulterior motive of the Rossian whaling fleet [which has announced it is not going to Hong Kongl near our waters was to do some energetic spying here. It might make a good plot for a Hollywood movie but in real life things are going too smoothly for Hong Kong now for us to risk offending China,

LONDON-"Of course I'm dying," said the veteran American bumorist Mark Twain yesterday, grimly smiling, "We're all dying. But I don't know that I'm doing it any faster than anybody else. As for dying in poverty, I'd just as soon die in poverty in London as anywhere. It would be a little more difficult, that's all; because I have got quite a number of friends here, anyone of whom, I believe, would be good for a month's provisions, and that would drag out the agony a long time."

The vessel expects to arrive at the sceoe of operations on June 29, and it is expected by Mr. B.F. Leavitt, inventor of deep-sea diving suits, that three weeks will be sufficient to cut out and to raise the treasure.

Poland and Détente With West

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WARSAW-Sweeping economic changes being made here by party leader Edward Gierek, a pragmatic Communist who used to toll in the coal mines of France, provide an essential backdrop for understanding the irresistible move toward détente with the West.

Relentless pressure from Poland and the Soviet Union's entire Eastern European empire is now focused on Moscow, reinforcing toe Kremlin's own decision to more toward a new form of "partnership" with the United States. That pressure is rooted in one hard fact: Political stability in Central Europe and between Mcscow and Washington must be established before serious econemic improvements can be made. Gierek came to power as the result of a threatened civil war in December of 1970 over price hikes on meat and other consumer goods in drastic short supply. He is now convinced that higher standards of living are the critical margin of safety for avoiding a oew round of economic civil war with ominous political overtones.

Nixon Hailed

That's why the Moscow summit between President Nixon and Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev was greeted here with an uncom-munist-like exultation. That's why Richard Nixou is being enstrined by Polish apparatchiki as America's greatest President, fully deserving a second term. Mr. Nixon is seen here not only as the chief Western architect of détente but the only American capable of building on the Mos-cow summit during the next four

For Gierek, those next four years are crucial. He is now decentralizing major parts of the country's wage structure, giving local plant managers near autonomy. To go along with the promise of higher income-estimated at 18 percent in real wages the next four years—Gierek is committed to a vast but slow build-up of consumer goods, starting with the big three: meat, bousing and automobiles. A somewhat similar decentralization (but not on the scale of Yogoslavia) has been blueprinted for production chiefs in such critical areas as cement. As one top party official told us: "Gierek is out to break the hold of the regional lobbies." That is, he is fighting production quotas and raw material allocations decreed from the top by Warsaw's planners who have vested interests in promoting their own regions. One claimed result: A cement production increase of 1.5 million tons the next four years simply by better utilization of plant capacity. Likewise, in a frantic effort to break the politically dangerous bottlenecks housing, the Polithuro has embarked on a system of incentives intended to give both builders

But the promised increase in wages will be a new source of political danger unless there are consumer goods to buy. State banks now hold about $4 billion in savings-Polish money looking for cars, refrigerators, apartments, tape recorders and other items taken for granted in the West.

Stealing a leaf from the Kremin, Glerek is promoting feintventure deals with Western industrial gients such as Flat, whose new Polish plant will produce 500,000 cars a year. Poland supplies labor, some materia's and a guaranteed Polish market; Piat supplies management, licenses and prodoction technology.

Gierek's long-range plan: to wed Western technology and production to Eastern labor and consumption. To work with the United States, he needs longrange credit from the Export-Import Bank, a matter discussed but not resolved during Mr. Nixon's visit here last week.

The political dangers of this unprecedented opening to the West are obvious. More than one

With a slight easing of Polish tourism to the capitalist West, the Poles are clamoring to go. What they see will act as an electrifying catalyst for more consumer demands in their CWD COUNTRY.

Accordingly, even if Gierek's soaring economic blueprint can be made to work by the cumbersome middle-level party bureaucraev, expectations will probably far outrun performance. That could well mean political and ideological unrest, fed by the Washington-Moscow détente.

That's why Western experts bere predict an immediate ideolegical tightening to stamp out political ferment and warn the intelectual dissidents. The paradox is obvious: Genuinely dedicated to improved standards of living and interiocking relationships with the capitalist West, Gierek and his fellow East Europeans may start a backfire they cannot London's Batterses Park Pun Fair (our nearest equivalent—and not very near, at that to a cross between Disneyland and the old Coney Island) something went wrong with the Big Dipper. One of the relier-coaster carriages came of the track and hurtled to the ground. Four children were killed and several more injured. An inquiry was immediately instituted. So far, there has been no official announcement as to the cause of the accident, but there has been an announcement that the law relating to fairgrounds and amusement parks is to be reviewed and. if it is found defective, amended. I know no more than anybody else about what caused the Batterses Big Dipper to go wrong, but I am, as it happens, in a position to anticipate the findings of those charged with examining the law on the subject, and could save them the trouble. The law on fairgrounds is not so much defective as nonexistent, and when the Home Office experts have come to that conclusion, I may well ask them why, if I knew this (as I did) 15 months ago, it took the deaths of four children to start them finding it out.

'More Red Tape'

I came to my conclusion in the course of preparing and present-ing a television documentary for ATV (one of the principal commercial networks in Britain) under the paradoxical-but, as things. turned out, severely understatedtitle of "What We Need Is More Red Tape.".

For the program, we investi-gated such things as safety regubeings involved at all. But common sense, like the evewitness accounts, tells us that any large-scale bombing or shelling hits

some innocent civilians. Why, then, does the U.S. government policy of heavy bombing and shelling must, unconsciously or otherwise, regard the Vietnamese

Tuned Out But many Americans, probably

most, have simply tuned out. The continuing death and destruction in Vietnam is no longer in their consciousness.

That is why public opinion can be so inert when Seymour Hersh of The New York Times discloses secret findings that another massacre occurred on the same morning as My Lai in 1968 The official report speaks of "murder," "pretense" and "misand of representation" in covering it up. but hardly anyone in Washington —in the military, in Congress or in the press—really seems to care

In a way, concealing the truth or not caring is worse than killing women and children at My Lai or bombing them by mistake at Phuc Loc. Nor does it help to say that the Communists have killed countless innocent people in Vietnam, Americans have to worry about their own souls.

The International Herald Tribune welcomes letters from readers. Short letters have a better chance of being published. All letters are subject to condensation for space reasons. Anonymous letters will not be considered for publication. As usual it seems that children and civilians, or civilians at heart, whether or not they are in uniform, are the victims of mankind's folly. This can be plainly seen in the pitiful photograph of children running crying and ever made was the idea of dominating others, regardless of the number of victims. It is a shame that people cannot learn to live with one another regardless of differences. Too long have people terown the blame upon one group or another. It is time that man learn to live with his neighbors, relatives and friends, as well as his so-called enemies, instead of trying always to destroy in the name of democracy, civilization, or whatever!

Klasen, Galcrie Mathias Fels, 138 Boulevard Hausemann, Paris 8, to June 34.

Characteristic of Klasen's style is a largish painting representing a metal panel with two switches and a dial mounted on it and, beneath it, a large grisaille representation of a pair of parted lips receiving a pill. This con-junction of technical paraphernalis and human anatomy occurs again and ogain. There is also a very big painting of a bath-room faucet, another of the rear panel of a trailer truck, etc., all treated with realism in a cold light.

These recent works by Pierre Soulages have the appearance of heroic calligraphies. In this they differ from the earlier works where the thick black lines appeared to be simply fragments of a much vaster construction. Here, in many cases, despite some of the broadest brushwork one might imagine, the figure sits well-rounded and complete within the canvas. ### 'Anna Karenina' Premiered by Bolshoi Ballet

MOSCOW, June 12 (AP) .-"Anna Karenina," based on the novel by Leo Toistol, was given its premiere by the Bolshol Ballet Saturday night. The ballet was written for ballerina Maya Plisetskaya by her husband, composer Rodion Shehe-drin. Miss Plisetskaya did the choreography herself. Judging by first-night applause, the bandsome production will be one of the Bolshol Ballet's most popular programs.

The only new ballet to be offered by the Bolshoi this season, the premiere of "Anna Karenina" was repeatedly put off during the past six months for unannounced rea-

On the general state of the world economy, BIS chairman Jelle Zijlsira said he was "less pessimistic" than a year ago. Not only were there signs of invorable productive activity in most countries, he said, but also there has ing inflationary forces."

The BIS report made several points of interest:

 Western gold production feil in 1971, reflecting smaller output from South Africa, but for the first time since 1965 there were significant sales from Communist countries, estimated at about $100 million (at $35 an ounce). The Eurodollar market, which has been called a "hydra-headed monster" by French Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing, in fact came out remarkably well from the dollar crisis last year. In the narrowing of the mergins of the EEC currencies, no member state since the plan went into effect on April 23 has had to lend another state reserves or menetary resources.

The BIS placed the size of the Eurodollar market et $54 billion, up from $46 billion in 1970. [A senior bank official said the BIS concluded that efforts to control the Eurocurrency market are impracticable, AP-DJ reported. The possibility of controls has been considered by various BIS committees, but the official said that "we have come to the conclusion that it would be very difficult to put any restrictions on the Euromarket."]

Kirin Seeks Link With Seagrams

Kirin Brewery of Japan is seeking government approval to form a joint venture with Seagrams Co. of Canada to produce whisky in Jepan. Kirin officials declined to disclose details. However, industry sources said approval of the venture is expected within the week. They said the venture is to be equally owned by Kirin and two Seagrams Group companies, Seagrams in the United States und Chivas Brothers of Britain. The venture would be the first of its kind in Japan involving non-Japanese whisky

U.S. Set to Develop New Transport

The U.S. Air Force, still recovering from its troubles with the giant C5 cargo jet, is preparing to begin development of another transport plane. Within a few weeks the Pentagon is expected to award two contracts to separate manufacturers to build prototypes of a medium-size, short-takeoff-and-landing (STOL) transport. The con-tracts will not commit the government to production, but the hungry elecraft industry is plenty interested anyway. The Air Force hopes the prototype effort will turn up a suitable replacement for the aging C130 Hercules—a medium transport built by Lockheed Alreraft. Six companies have submitted proposals; Lockheed and North American Rockwell, working as a team;

Boeing: McDonneli Douglas; Textron's Bell Acrospace and Fairchild Industries, The Air Force wants a plane about the same size as the 98foot-long, 150,000-pound C130, but with a slightly larger cargo hold and the oblifty to make shorter takeoffs and landings. Perhaps the most stringent requirement at this point involves cost. Defense Secretary Melvin Laird directed that potential contractors be asked to show what kind of plane could be built for no more than narrowed slightly from 1971's fourth quarter, the Federal Trade Commission (FIC) reports.

Manufacturers' after-tax profits in the March quarter declined to 4 cents on each dollar of sales from 4.1 cents in the December quarte but remained above the 3.9 cents of the 1971 first quarter. Although the FTC did not give any reason for the decline, observers noted that profit margins are restricted by the government's pricecontrol program. The profit decline was centered in nondurable goods, but was partially offset by an increase in profits on durables. Industries recording the largest declines were apparel, printing, petroleum, stone end glass and electrical machinery. The greatest increases were in paper, chemicals, primary metals, fabricated metals and transportation equipment.

Signs Point to Renewed Inflation in U.S.

By Alfred L. Malabre Jr. NEW YORK, June 12 (AP-DJ). -If President Nixon wants to make certain that his wage-price controls go down in history as a reasonably successful endeavor, his safest course may well be to scrap the program now. For it appears inflation may soon be getting pastier.

And it is doubtful that the controls, short on policing and long on voluntary cooperation, can do much to contain the prospective price climb.

If Mr. Nixon were to scrap his program now, he could point to what on the surface seems im-pressive headway. Before he resorted to wage-price curbs last August, the consumer price index -the most widely followed inflation gauge—had been rising at an annual rate of 4.8 percent. in April, the latest month available, consumer prices rose at an annual rate of only 3.1 percent.

'Golden Era' Fading But evidence suggests that the current period may well rep-resent a sort of "golden era" as far as prices are concerned and may not be seen again for a very iong time-controls or no con-

briskly, after an unusually sluggish recovery from the 1970 reces-This sluggish recovery, rather than the controls, seems largely responsible for the recent easing of inflation. Price increases, in fact, were diminishing well before August.

Economic history shows that inflation usually eases for oneto-two years after a recession. The business uplurn is 18 months old. The record also shows that as expansions move into high gear, as this one has, prices start to rise more sharply as demand increases, unused resources begin to shrink and shortages develop.

Rates of toblessness and idle plant capacity remain unusually high. But the strong ilkelihood is that both rates will drop in coming months. A more signifi-cant development may be that recent surveys of corporate purchosing agents show a sharply rising number of commodities in short supply.

Other Yardsticks Worsen Some yardsticks more specialized than the consumer price index, and more indicative of future inflation, already are showing larger increases. The wholesale price index rose at an annual rate of 6 percent last month, nearly double the April rise. A little-known index that measures the price movements of

U.K. Business Outlays Weak

LONDON, June 12 (AP-DJ) .-British industry has so far failed to respond clearly to the government'e inducements to encourage capital spending. The Department of Trade and Industry said today that its latest survey of investment intentions "shows that no consistent trend has yet emerged following" the government's 1972-73 budget which was introduced March 21. It provided several important incentives to promote capital spending, which the government saye is low compared with its main trading competitors,

The department said the quantitative forecasts provided by some of the largest manufactur-ing firms indicate a strengthening of investment intentions since a previous survey was taken late

But in the rest of the manufacturing industry there has been some weakening in investment intentions As a result it said the overall ontlook for manufacturing industry is still for a modest percentage decline in investment between 1971-72.

In contrast, it said investment in the distributive and service industries is expected to rise by 5 percent in 1972 and a "substantial rise" in investment in shipping is expected.

The report said fixed capital expenditure by manufacturing, distributive and service industries totaled a provisional £767 million seasonally adjusted and at 1963 prices, in the first quarter. This compares with £765 million in the 1971 fourth quarter and £757 million in the first quarter. In a separate report, the department also disclosed what it described as a "substantial fall" manufacturers' inventories during the first quarter-provisignally estimated to have dropped £90 million, at 1963 seasonally-adjusted prices.

It said retailers' inventories are provisionally estimated to have declined £29 million in the first quarter while wholesalers' inven-tories are estimated to have dropped £2 million.

auggest bigger price increases. Many economists contend, with considerable bistorical evidence to support them, that the nation's money supply should not expand for more than a few months ot ennual rates much above 5 percent. Faster growth, it is warned, eventually brings on worsening inflation. In fact, U.S. authorities have long allowed the money supply to grow much faster than 5 percent,

What It Means

The prespect of a deepening budget deficit means, among other things, the authorities may be under pressure to keep money expanding swiftly to facilitate Treasury financing needs, even if inflation is worsening.

Next year's schedule of major labor negotiations also suggests price troubles. This year's schedule is feather-light by compari-

Worsening inflation means interest rates would tend to rise. Higher corporate bond rates could lure investors from the stock market and tend to depress share prices. Higher bor-rowing costs could crimp economic activity. Policy-makers might well seek higher tax rates while trying to curb inflation.

On the international front, the dollar could weaken dangerously - though it should be noted that prospects for price stability in many foreign countries seem even dimmer than here.

The most cheerful thing that can be said is that while worse inflation seems probable, there is nothing to indicate a return to the very rapid rates—exceeding 8 percent annually in some months -that prevailed in 1969-70. Consumer price increases in the 5 percent-plus area, however, seem distinctly possible. If Mr. Nixon is fortunate the November elec-tions will be over by the time that might happen.

New Wonder Drug Works

By Dan Dorfman

Marvels on Upjohn Stock

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP-DJ) .- Among other things, they nay help your asthma, curb high blood pressure, supposedly work wonders for your ulcer, prevent conception, induce abortion, and, oh yes, they can perform one other vital service —boost the price of your stock.

They are called prostaglandins, hormone-like substances that have generated big excitement in drug circles. Upjohn has been working on this development for some 13 years, and after an extremely bullish article in Fortune magnaine, the stock responded with a sprint of more than 14 points last week (but dropped 7 3.4 today).

Upjohn's management will not discuss the situation. However, several analysis believe investors may be going overboard, Says one of the most respected names in drug circles: "The first thing you have to ask yourself is whether the application will be broad enough to support the current euphoria. Also, who will be the leader in the field of prostaglandins—and when? It's all too uncertain for runaway optimism."

Some analysts speculate that U.S. marketing, which will require government approval, could be three to four years away for just the first, most well-researched compound. When other, more important prostaglandins will go on the market is anybody's guess, It may take as long as a decade. Further, some analysts, such as David Talbot of William D. Witter, caution that Upjohn is not alone in prostaglandins. He says that Johnson & Johnson, Syntex and American Home Products, among others, also are active. States Mr. Talbot: "I'm not convinced Upjohn will be the first or the most successful."

David MacCallum, drug industry specialist at Faulkner,

Daykins and Sullivan, is a bull. Although he views Upjohn stock as "probably a little ahead of itself on fundamentals," he regards it is attractive for the longer term. But he also observes that Upjohn "is an accident-prone company that seems to have a capability of stubbing its toes."

Arthur I. Rauch, drug industry specialist at Laird Inc., sees Upjohn shares doing about as well as the market over tha next six to 12 months. Thus, he says, "There isn't any compelling reason to buy, or sell, the stock." Adds Mr. Rauch: "The company appears to have weathered the storm pretty well. And what's left is pretty secure."
What may not be secure, though, is what some observers regard as an inflated stock price on excess speculation.

Gold Price Falls In Hectic Trading

LONDON, June 12 (Reuters) .-There was some near-panic selling of gambiers' gold hoards on the London market early today as the drop in the price of the precious metal from its recent post-war peak levels gained momentum. But later, as the rate recovered, some of the more intrepid speculators started buying again.

Today's price fluctuations, ranging from $58 to $62 an ounce, typifled the uneasy state of the market—uneasy not because of any currency crisis, the usual cause, but because not enough gold is being put on sala to meet the demand, At the opening this morning, the price fell as low as $58 an ounce. But by mid-morning it was fixed at $59, down $3.50 from Friday's afternoon fixing, and by mid-afternoon was up to $61.20. This acted as a spur to speculators to resume their buying-a trend which later pushed up the unofficial rate to $63.

In Zurich, the price closed in a range of $61 to $62 an ounce, up from earlier quotes of $58 to $59, but off from $62.25 to

By Alan Truscott

This hand, recently played in a private game, caused considerable discomfiture to an expert player, sitting in the South position. North's artificial opening bid.

showed 16 points or more and South's one no-trump response was balanced and positive. North could simply have raised to three no-trump but he used Stayman not to locate a major suit fit but to guard against a possible weak-ness. When South bid two spades, the no-trump game became the obvious contract

Given this bidding, the only genuine suit was spades. Never-theless, West led the five of spades. On the face of it, this gave South a trick. But, luckily for West, South was an expert. When East produced the queen, south made the intelligent but unfortunate play of ducking, assuming that West would not have led a four-card suit in face of the spade bid. The distribution seemed to him to be 5-2.

As South expected, East returned the spade seven and West won with the nine. A heart shift was safe and the dummy's ace was taken. South now tried diamonds, and, as West held length in spades, the declarer misguessed by leading to the diamond 10. West won and led a second heart,

South took it with the heart queen, cashed two diamond winners, ending in his hand, and took a club finesse. But he nearly fell off his chair when East won with the king and produced the spade

So, instead of preventing the defense from making four spade tricks, the first-trick duck had allowed them to do so.

GETRAIT is the gate, and nar dilemma. What is the nature row is the way which leadeth unto life, and there be few that find it." A couple of novels back, in "Jerusalem the Golden," Margaret Drabble, or her character Clara, drolly mistook St. Matthew's strait for straight. But this time round, in a parable of strictures and confinements and moral imperatives, the young British novelist gets the words, and their intimidating instruc-tion, just right. With precision, and intelligent care and in the face of every fashion Miss Drabble manages to dramatize such concepts as Duty, Good Works, Faith and Brotherhood. Her theater is modern London rather than the ether yonder, and her characters are life-size She is more at home with social nuance than with theological conundrums. Nevertheless, her works abound with references to John Bunyan and his Christian allegories:

"The Needle's Eye" tells the story of an unhappily married lawyer, Simon Camish, and a young divorced mother, Rose Vas-silou. Simon is the more conventional of the two, a burnt-out case who values himself too low, who refuses to buck the pennyante tyrants who oppress him. He is thought to have married for money, though he did not: "At least such an assumption concealed the truth. He would, at that age, have preferred to appear as cymic than fool." He has surrendered to misanthropy "as a drunken man plunges suddenly into an awareness of being drunk," and he is most exquisite-ly tortured by the company of his peers.

Miss Drabble is attentive, and not without malice. She is especially deft at trapping us somewhere beneath the third circle of a disastrons dinner party. She takes us shopping for the food and drink, serves us the quiche, describes the smart ruck that defaces dining and drawing rooms. We suffer with Simon. At one such party, he meets Rose, and she shows him a secret passage out of the prison of social conventions.

She is rich, rich enough to: have read about her eccentricities bave read about her eccentricities is illiant herome of an ear on the front pages of the tabloids, novel. On the back of a type of heseball bubble-gum card that youngaters collect is a question and answer. On Kilkenny's card the question is. "How many pitchers ever pitched for four leams in one seeson?" The answer: "Two-Willis Hudlin in 1940 and Ted Gray in 1955."

"This is so ironie I can't believe it." Kilkenny said as he pulled the card from his duffel bag. He started the season with Detroit and was traded to Oakland May 10. Six days later he was traded to San Diego.

White Sox Ex-Hurler Wants To Make Pitches, Not War

By Murray Chass

NEW YORK, June 12 (NYT). -Watch the fighting White Sox in 1972," suggests the elogan on Chicago's pocket baseball schedules. And indeed, accompaying the slegan is a picture of a Chicago player fighting.

The player is Bert Johnson, and in the pictures he's snarling at several Oakland Athletics who are trying to get at him. The fight, which occurred last season, is one of the reasons Bart Johnson no longer is a member of the fighting White Sox whom the fans should go and sec,

Johnson plays for Tucson of the Pacific Coast League now, demoted after the Yankees battered him for eight runs in the 13th inning a week ago,

It wasn't that inning that prompted the White Sox to exile Johnson to the minors; the young righthander had been hit hard all sesson, and the White Sox sent him to Tucson so he could rediscover his fastball, one of the liveliest in the league last

Image Making

It's questionable whether Johncon wants to rediscover the fastball. There's no doubt, though, that the White Sox had to do comething with him after what they did to him with their imagemaking campaign.

The best thing that could happen to him was to remove him from this situation," said Rick Reichardt, Johnson's perceptive teammate.

Johnson, it turns out, was very sensitive to his involvement in several fights or near fights last season. As with the fight with the Athletics, the altercations all were started by a Johnson fastball hitting a batter or missing him by the thickness of a stitch

"His fear of hitting someone again and starting a fight was the basis of his ineffectiveness," Reichardt seid, "He just wouldn't throw as herd se he could. A player's psyche, which most people aren't concerned with, affects his play on the field. They made a big thing out of his fights. For instance, on our press caravan during the winter they had a large collage depicting the Oakland fight.

When you have to live with something like that all winter long, It can get to you." It got to Johnson

"Every time I pick up a White Sox schedule," the confused 22year-old Johnson complained earlier in the season, "I see No. 21 fighling. I don't want this kind of image, I just want to pitch." Feeble Imitation

Johnson pitched, but his fastball was a feeble imitaiton of the fastball of 1971, At times it didn't even seem as if the 6-foot-5 Callfornian cared whether he got any-

Whether a trip to Tucson turns out to be what the doctor ordered remains to be seen, but if there's anything to be learned from the Johnson affair, the White Sox might know next time to be more concerned about their players than their image.

But she bet $50 to win on "Riva" in the eighth race and left instructions, plus $45, with a friend to "wheel" Riva Ridge with each of the nine rivals in the exacta.

Someone had to explain to her friend what a "wheel" was. Eventually the man was pointed in the right direction and secured $5 worth of one-two selections on every combination—Riva Ridge to win coupled with each of the other horses to come second.

It was a good bet, for the son of First Landing on Saturday had the legs, the heart, the body, the muscle and the competitive-ness of a brilliant Belmont winner The "Burch society" salvaged but one moment of excitement.

when Key To The Mint attempted to challenge the front-runner near the five-sixteenths pole. Ron Turcotte, riding Mrs. Tweedy's colt, didn't know a moment's worry. Riva Ridge bounded away -by a length, by three, by seven

Beautiful Ride' The time of 2 minutes 28 seconds was excellent and, as Turcotte acknowledged later, "the fractions were pretty fast (the mile in 1:36 3/5), but he was so relaxed. He just took me for a beautiful ride today." The ef-Kentucky Derby winner's performance in the Preakness Stakes at Pimlico, in the slop, when he finished a floundering fourth. It would have taken a superior 3-year-old even to test Riva Ridge in the 104th Belmont, and none was entered. Key To The Mint, although brought up to the race perfectly, ran like a miler attempting 1 1/2 miles. No Le Hace, stupidly installed as the second choice, finished right where he figured: sixth. Smiling Jack ran out of gas, and class, midway of the stretch turn.

Riva Ridge easily ended Mre. Tweedy'a drought at the mutuel windows. Her 550 win bet was worth $130, a profit of $80. Her $5 exacts ticket coupling the 8-to-5 favorite with second-place 24-to-1 Ruritania paid $427.50. And s check for $93,540, drawn on the account of the New York Racing Association, added to the day's enjoyment. When will the next triple-crown winner appear? Next year will mark a quarter-century since Citation, in 1948, was the eighth, and most recent, to win the Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

The spokesman shook his head.
"We have studied this very closely, and I can assure you that despite the Soviet efforts to in-crease their pollution, they are still a second-rate power compared to the United States.

"The key to a strong pollution program is automobiles. The United States is producing 10 times as many automobiles as "Also, U.S. energy requirements guarantee we will have a superiority in air pollution for the next decade. While the Soviets have made some progress in water pollution it's still a drop in the bucket compared to our own waste disposal programs." "But what guarantee do we have that the Soviets will not secretly increase their pollution production while the treaty is in

"In order to have a true pollution deterrent," the spokesman said, "you must have a consumeroriented society. You must have phosphates, disposable beer cans, styrofosm, plastics and used cars. The Soviet economy cannot possibly produce the consumer products needed to give them parity with the U.S." "Is it true," another reporter asked, "that the Soviets have been working on multiple pollutants that can pollute the air and the water at the same time?"

"We're aware of it," the spokesman said, "but we have multiple pollution weapons as well, and ours are much more sophisticated. Without violating security I can tell you that we now have smokestacks that can pollute three states at one time.

"The Soviets know what we can do with pollution, and that has put the fear of God into them. Gentlemen, the U.S.S.R. wanted this treaty for one reason. They had satellite photographs of our environment, and they knew they couldn't match us. When they saw the latest pictures of Los Angeles, they came to the conclusion that they had lost the pollution battle, and it was in their best

S.N. Behrman: A Silk Herring

By John Corry

NEW YORK (NYT)—Fanny Brice once said that he wrote like a "silk herring," and when he congratuled Ina Claire for reading a speech in one of his plays particularly well she thanked him but said,

"Sam, I didn't understand one word of it." He is S.N. Behrman, the American master of what once was called the drawingroom comedy. He is full of years-he observed his 79th birthday last Friday—and full of recollections, too. He wrote, among others, "The Second Man," "Biography" and "End of Summer," and he adapted Giraudoux's "Amphitryon 38."

Mr. Behrman has met nearly everyons at one time or another, and any number of them have found their way into his new book, "People in a Diary," which will be published this month by Little, Brown.

The book is a memoir, and it is more or less based on the diaries that Mr. Behrman has been keeping since he was an undergraduate at Harvard in 1915. In fact, he is still keeping a disry, the latest one being a child's copybook with ruled lines in which he writes every night before he falls asleep. "Twe been sitting in this room for three years," said Mr. Behrman, who lives on Park Avenue. He suffered a stroke when he was past 70, and not long ago he underwent a hip operation.

Stavs at Home

"I don't go out and I don't see anyone," he said, "although I do have the

"Til be writing in my diary forever," Mr. Behrman said. "When I had a play on in London I'd have to go out every night. I'd leave the diary on my desk and it would help me get through the evening, knowing that I could return to it."

A great many people have marched through Mr. Behrman's life, He wrote plays that starred Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, Laurence Olivier and Noel Coward. He wrote movies for Greta Garbo, and he wrote a biography of another old friend.

S.N. Behrman, at home on Park Avenue in New York.

Max Beerbohm, which he called "Portrait of Max."

Despite the life he has led, Mr. Behrman always has had a passion of solliude. Long ago, in fact, someone on Broadway called him "Slippery Sam" thereby called him "Slippery Sam," thereby memo-rializing his talent for going off by him-

Cruelest Art

Mr. Behrman shifted about in his chair, lifted up and put down a blography by Cynthia Asquith, and talked about his last play, "But for Whom Charlie."

It opened in 1964 in the first season of the Lincoln Center Repertory Theater, and it was not a success. Mr. Behrman said he had not expected it to be, either.

"Playwriting is the cruelest of the writing arts," he said. "Decapitation comes so quickly.

"On my last play my agent and I went to see Robert Whitehead, the producer, and begged him to postpone it for a year. He couldn't do it. So, you're hemmed in and can do nothing. You're doomed. You open with a doomed baby.

There's one play I wrote—End of Summer—that had a most exquisite performance by Ina Claire. I think that was quite a good play. I feel a great many reservations about most of the things I've done. Some of my plays were mistakes. I'm unhappy they came into existence. My novel [The Burning Glass]—I'm unhappy about that.

"My plays don't fit into these times.

There's no place for them. There's no one to play in them. There isn't an actress like Ina Chaire. She could defiate pomposity with a gesture a look. She was also a great tragic actress."

Mr. Behrman said that any good comedy had to have a tragic background . "Now, 'Amphitryon,' the Giraudoux play I adapted, it's funny, but it's very serious.

"In the last scene it's tragedy when Jupiter offers to reveal the future to Alkmens and she says. No. I know that my beloved husband will live and die, that my dear son will be born and live and die, that I will live and die.' It's really a scene of terrible pain."

Old Hero

Mr. Behrman pansed to examine a new British edition of his book "Duveen." He lit another filter-tip cigarette, sipped a glass of ginger ale and said that "The Holmes-Laski Letters" was a marvelous collection of correspondence.

Oliver Wendell Holmes, he said, was an old hero of his, and Harold Laski was an

"You know, in one of the letters Holmes writes about aging," Mr. Behrman said. "He says that the room is getting nar-rower, Erik Erikson takes about dying with integrity. But who lived with more integrity than Holmes, and he said the room was retting parrower.

Talk about dying with integrity is meaningless. I was 78 my last birthday, and I don't know what it means."

Nobuhiko Higashikuni, a grandson of Japanese Emperor Hirohito born 27 years ago in a Tokyo airraid shelter, yesterday married Yeshiko Shimada, 28, in a Tokyo ceremony attended by Crown Prince Aribito and Crown Princess Michiko. Higashikuni, a banker, is the eldest son of former Prince Moriatsu Higashikumi and the late Princess Shigeko, eldest daughter of Hirohito and Empress Nagako. The bride, educated in Hawaii and daughter of the board chairman of a real-estate company, received a transistor radio as a wedding gift from Hirohito, while the groom got a set of cufflinks from his granddad.

Elvis Presley, resplendent in a white suit and sequin-studded white cape, performed for the first. time in New York over the weekend before a screeching audience of 20,000. Eivis, 37, was reported to be "totally in command" during his hour-long appearance at Madison Square Garden, provoking mild hysterics with just a flick of the wrist or a sedate gyration before an audience unmistakably older than the usual rock turnouts. Commenting bedalous pelvic action which earned him his nickname, Elvis said, "Man, I was tame compared to what they do now. I don't do anything but jiggle."

After a lifetime of attending the ills of adults, Dr. Paul Budley White, 86, the renowned American heart specialist, says he is starting a "children's crusade."
